Juliana Birkhoff to begin working for the Consensus Building Institute

WASHINGTON, D.C. (October 1, 2007) – We would like to announce that on October 1 Juliana Birkhoff will begin working for the Consensus Building Institute in Washington, DC. Juliana Birkhoff began working for RESOLVE in December 1998 as the Director of RESOLVE’s Center for Research and Education. During her tenure, she worked with RESOLVE’s board, president, and staff to implement RESOLVE’s core mission and contributions to reflective practice, research and evaluation, and capacity building about consensus building and collaborative action. Juliana left RESOLVE to finish her doctorate in conflict analysis and resolution from George Mason University and returned as a Senior Mediator in 2003.

The Consensus Building Institute is based in Boston with employees in Washington, DC and Charlottesville, VA. At CBI, Juliana Birkhoff will continue her environmental and public policy collaboration and consensus building work. CBI is looking forward to the contributions Juliana will bring to CBI’s capacity building, research, and direct service practices. Juliana’s good work at RESOLVE in children’s health and other issues will be carried on by outstanding professionals at RESOLVE, and both our organizations look forward to working together in the future on our shared interests in this field.
